STEAMBOATS AGROUND-CONDITION OF THE CASTLE-TON SAND BAR.

The bar at Castleton is again a great nuisance to the day and night beats plying between this city and Al-bany. It will be remembered that at the commence-ment of the season, scarcely a boat could leave this city or A'heay without running aground, and the owners fo and it necessary to set the mid-diggers at work, be gore they could get their box's through at the usur I hours. This succeeded for a time, but the bar is n ew in nearly the same condition as it was before th a mud-diggers were set to work upon it, and boats are constantly running aground, and compelled to rer main there until the rising of the tide. Yesterday nor sing the steamer lease Newton of the People's e run aground, and remained there several hours bet we she floated off. The Knickerbocker of the M sechants' Line also shared the same mishap.

WRECK OF THE STEAMER CHAMPION.

FRESH POND, Thursday, Nov. 3-11 p. m. The steamer Champion, which was sunk off Matinui work Point on Wednesday morning, by being run into by the propeller Albatross, was raised sufficiently today to enable her to be towed to New-York. steamtuge Magnolia and Satellite, and a large derrick, have been working at the wreck nearly all day. The beavy swell which came rolling in this morning entirely broke up the after saloon of the wreck, and washed it ashore with its contents. The freight, baggage, etc., which has been recovered, will be sent to ew-York by the steamer Croton on Saturday morning, as it cannot be collected and ready for shipment before that time. The four mules that were saved will be sent back to-morrow (Friday) morning, by Hendrickeon's Express.

The body of Martin Jackson, the Greman who was killed, was recovered about noon to-day. Much time bas been spent in trying to recover the bodies on board, and every means resorted to, but as yet only the dead freman has been reached. His body was found in the fire-roots, frightfully scalded, and no doubt he was almost instantly killed. A Coroner's Jury was subsequently summoned, and an inquest held upon the body by Coroner Hawkhurst of Glen Cove. The evidence elicited from several witnesses shows that the proper signals were exchanged between the Champion and the Albatross; that the signals given by the Champion expressed the desire of her pilot to take the right hand side of the channel, and the Albatross, by her signals, acquiesced. Accordingly, the Champion hauled half a point out of her course, but the propeller kept straight on her way, not changing in the least, and as a consequence run at full speed into the Champion. On hearing this testimony, the Jury returned the following

That the deceased, Martin Jackson, came to his death by scaled and burns received in consequence of a collision between the propeller Albatrons, of Providence, R. I., and the steamer Champion, of New Haven, which collision caused the boiler of the latter vasue its burst. And we further find that said collision was caused by the gross carelessness of those in charge of the Albatrons. At 10 o'clock this evening the derrick had succeeded in raising the wreck sufficiently to admit of her being sowed to New-York. Accordingly, the steamtuge started with her for the city, where she will be run nto dry dock immediately.

ARRIVAL OF THE CHAMPION-RECOVERY OF STEELE'S BODY-OTHER DODIES SUPPOSED TO BE

ON BOARD. On Thursday morning, about 10 o'clock, one of Bishep's boom derricks, was dispatched to Red Spring Point, where the steamer Champion was sunk. The distance being about thirty miles, the derrick reached the Champion about 5:30 p. m.; a tions, and dishevelled artistic efforts. When Duprez chain was fixed upon the gallows frame of the engine came to the Grand Opera at Paris and superseded work, and had the Champion partially affoat by 10 o'clock. At that time, being in tow of the steamboat | the passionate declamation of The Pirate came over Birkbeck, they started for Hunter's Point, where they arrived yesterday morning, at 8 o'clock. Here they remained most of the day waiting for the tide. Accordingly, all the necessary arrangements being completed, the Champion was placed upon the ways and hauled on the slip. It was 6 o'clock last evening when the chain commenced operation, and at 8 o'clock p. m., the steamer was sufficiently drained to allow of a cursory search through her cabins.

The body of the missing gentleman, Mr. Steele, of New Haven, was found banging by his hand where the water had left him as it flowed out of the vessel as she was raised above the surface. He appeared to have climbed to the upper berth, above the one in which he had been sleeping, and in endeavoring to escape, by getting above the water, he had stretched out his hand d grasped one of the cross rails fastened to the decks in front of the berths. In this condition he was found. The cabin presented a dismal and forlorn appearance strewed around and in heaps were clothing of every description. The fracture which the propeller Albatross made in the side of the Champion extended at least twenty feet from the guards, where she was struck, penetrating the shell and the flue of the boiler.

A thorough search will be made throughout the Cham pion to-day for the bodies of passengers who may have been on board of her. One of the passengers informed our reporter that there must be at least three or four more persons on board, unless they had been washed out by the removal of the vessel.

CHANGE OF STEAMERS.

The new steamer Yorktown, of the Virginia Steam boat Company, will take the place of the steamer Quaker City for Havana, leaving on the 15th inst. She will be commanded by Capt. R. W. Shufeldt. The Quaker City, it is believed, will be ready to resume her place in the line on the 5th of December.

NAVAL. Commodore Sloat, whose exploits in the Pacific Ocean during the Mexican war fill so conspicuous a page in our naval history, is now stopping in this city, and visited the Brooklyn Navy-Yard yesterday. He is a very quiet-looking person, scarcely five feet six inches in hight, dresses in plain black, and, although little short of 80 years of age, having entered the service in 1800, does not appear to be over 50. His hair is thick, and almost white. Commodore Sloat's notoriety springs from the prompt and energetic manner in which he repaired to California from Mazatlan, in 1846, on learning that Gen. Taylor had commenced fighting at Point Isabel. The frigate Savannah and the British line-of-battle ship Collingwood, the latter commanded by Admiral Seymour and the former by Commodore Sloat, were lying at Mazatlau, when the Inst-named officer, at a private dinner given by a gentleman on shore, accidentally learned that Taylor had begun hostilities; Sloat, without communicating his ideas to any one, quietly boarded his vessel, ordered

I not intrusive, Slaot's attempt to Americanize More revy, was completely distanced by the Savannah, which arrived in port fifteen days before the Collingwood. When the latter got in, Commodore Sloate was behalf of his native country," tendered the compitalities of the place to Admiral Seymour, the representative of a power friendly to the United States. The Englishman was outgenerated and a state of the best of a bad matter, and begg Apprenission from the Yankee Commodore to cut rough spars on shore, a request that was most willing by acceded to. Commodore Sloate is now on the "tetired fast," and is credited on the Register with expenses and five months active seawith sevented years and five months active sea-

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—Nov. 4—Before Judge INGERSOLL.

This was a motion for an injunction by the Rev. Dr. Leeser, a Hebrew divise of Philadelphia, to restrain the defendents from infringing on his copyright of an edition of the Hebrew Hills. It appeared that the defendants caused a reprint of Mr. Besser's hible to be made in Germany, but of inferior work masship. This reprint was sold to Hebrew hooksellers in this city for one half the price charged for Mr. Leeser's work. The Court, after hearing argument, granted the injunction as prayed for.

Before Judge Bradde.

Actions Fork Libral.

Maria E. Hammer agt. Jacob Meyer.

The plaintiff is a widow, and keeper of an emigrant boarding-houre at No. 130 Greenwich street in this city. The defendant, prior to the commencement of this action, was a boarder in said house. The compaint alleges three distinct causes of action of libel, which the defendent caused to be published in the German papers of this city, the libelous matter being as to the moral character of the plaintiff and her house. She claims $10,000 damages. It is alleged at the end of each count of the complaint "that plaintiff has been greatly knywed in her housiness of reeping hourders" by reason of the publication of said libelous matter.

On the 6th ult., the defendant obtained from Judge Brady an order to show cause, why plaintiff should not specify fully and particularly in what manner, and to what extent, and as to what boarders or persons, and in what same as to each, she had been injured in her said business of keeping boarders; or else that said words be severally stricken out, or that an order be made precluding plaintiff from giving evidence of special damage for want of specification of the particulars of such damage. The motion was argued by A. H. Reary, eac., for motion, and J. C. Clerg, eq., in opposition, on the lifth ult., at which time the Court reserved its decision. On the 3d inst., Judge Brady rendered a decision denying the metion without costs. A. Hamilton Reary, for defendant. J. C. Clegg, for plaintiff.

worthy the name is a rarity announced in Europe in lyrical circles with an intensity of expression that we do not know of yet in this country of preparations, expectaof the sunken steamer, and at 6 o'clock it was set to Nourrit, it was an event which filled the journals. When Rubini first found his composer in Bellini, and the musical stage, floods of literature hailed the circumstance. Rubini was "divine," and the Italian ladies used to say, "Il mio Bellini." We here have not a sufficiently leisurely class to enter into such ecstacies, and accordingly tenors give place to discussions on the regular ticket, and all manner of utilitarian things. But so far as we are permitted to call attention to tenors, we may announce M. Beaucardeat the Academy. This gentleman made his second bow at the Academy last night. In appearance he is not love-lorn. Stout, lusty, with a Swiss mountaineer looking head and leg, he seems out out for the bard soporous work of the opera-where delicate frames are impossible. But with all this show of immense strength, we do not find in him a Brahamlike force. On the contrary, much that he does is uncertain-some points are next to break-downs-but then-then come the moments of inspiration, when the house is taken captive, and the tenor rules the hour. The first act of Lucrezia, so far as the tenor was concerned, was simply fair. A great reputation could not be made upon it. But in the poison trio he did better, and that excellent dramatic composition could not be made upon it. But in the poison trio he did better, and that excellent dramatic composition was encored. At the encore M. Beacarde came out superbly. In the climax, at the words, "Madre min," he sent a thrill through the house, and his fortine for the night was made. He was tumnituously called before the curtain, and achieved a great success. The Soprano part—Lacrezin—is one of Madams (Gazzaniga's successes which we have often had occasion to notice with applane. This hady has pursued studies during the summer, and now is better than ever. As a dramatic singer, she holds a high rank.

M. Amodro's voice is improved but is not restored. He should take care of such a gift.

Terrible Fatal Accident at Clifton,—On Thursday night Mr. Charles Lambert, a German butcher, at Clifton, Staten Island, was burned to death in consequence of a camphene explosion. Lambert's wife also nearly lost her life by the accident. In the course of the night Mrs. Lambert rose to light a camphene hamp, and when she was filling the lamp with camphene, which was done very imprudently while the wick was ighted, the camphene explosed, and Mrs. Lambert and the camphene explosed, and Mrs. Lambert of the bed and attempted to extinguish the fire to save Mrs. Lambert rose to light a camphene lamp, and when she was filling the lamp with camphene, which was done very imprudently while the wick was ighted, the camphene exploded, and Mrs. Lambert rushed out of the bed and attempted to extinguish the first own of the bed and attempted to extinguish the first own of the bed and attempted to extinguish the first own of the bed and attempted to extinguish the first own of the bed and attempted to extinguish the first own of the bed and attempted to extinguish the first own of the bed and attempted to extinguish the first own of the bed and attempted to exting
